LEADING MELBOURNE DIETITIAN APPOINTED ADVANCED PRACTITIONER BY THE DIETITIANS ASSOCIATION OF AUSTRALIA

The Dietitians Association of Australia (DAA) is delighted to announce dietitian, Maureen Humphrey from Melbourne, has been granted the Advanced Accredited Practising Dietitian (AdvAPD) credential for formal recognition as a professional leader in her field of nutrition and dietetics. Ms Humphrey joins 51 of her colleagues, who together make up one per cent of the DAA membership, who have achieved this level of recognition.

DAA President, Mrs Julie Dundon, said: 'The newly appointed Advanced APDs demonstrate high level skills and expertise as well as being recognised as leading role models and mentors for the dietetic profession.'

Ms Humphrey joins an esteemed group of dietitians already awarded the credential, who continue to show their commitment to the profession. DAA's AdvAPDs represent the diversity in the dietetics profession, working in areas such as academia, clinical, private practice, public health, community nutrition and industry.

The AdvAPD program shows how DAA strives for and achieves high-level practice reinforcing DAA as the leader in nutrition and dietetics in Australia.
